ONLOOKER DISCUSSES MISSISSIPPI AFFAIRS

Governor's Announcement of Intention to Oppose Bond Meat to His Political Enemies—Deeper Issue than Road Building between Governor and Lawmakers—Governor Fails as "Ouster".

Grenada Sentinel:
Been some time since I have written anything for your columns and since you told me that you would be pleased to have occasional items from the State Capital, I am taking it for granted that you would like something for your readers just now that the legislature has again been called in session by Gov. Bilbo.

Yes, the legislature is here. And it seems that the lower house has Gov. Bilbo where he cannot move in a direct line to the place he would like above all other things now to go. The road question is the thing that is skillfully kept to the front but the issue between the Governor and the lawmakers is deeper than that.

Some one was unkind enough to say that there was nothing Gov. Bilbo was more expert in than in spending somebody else's money. Whether or not this is true, your correspondent will not say, but it seems that there is nothing that pleases Gov. Bilbo more and that there is nothing on the surface of the earth or in the depths of the waters below or in the air above that he is more anxious to do than to make appointments which mean control for him. Since he became Governor there is not a single board or commission that he has not sought by every possible means to dominate. Where the terms of the members of the board or the commission have not expired, the Governor has tried the ousting method. But as an ouster, he has not been a howling success. This, many are saying, is the main cause of the Governor's troubles with the majority of the members of the lower house. These observations are made in no spirit of unkindness to the Governor, but with the very faint hope that he may see the futility of much of what he has tried to do and will adopt other tactics. It is an open secret that many of the Governor's close political friends say that he will not listen to their counsel and that he kicks like a bay steer when they insist on their views.

The Governor's political enemies are rolling as a sweet morsel under their tongues the Governor's announcement that he will oppose Prof. Bond for state superintendent of education in 1931. This announcement but kindles another fire under the Governor. This is a fact regardless of Prof. Bond or any other man who may run. In fact it has been said in certain political circles that Prof. Bond would not seek the office again and one sometimes hears it stated that an announcement to this effect was forthcoming when Prof. Bond ran the last time. It is said that Bond made himself an Ishmaelite from Gov. Bilbo's political household when he refused to vote with the Governor on the other day at a meeting of the board of college trustees to oust Chancellor Hume at the university. The Governor's foes are saying that it is more and more evident that he wants to be the Big Chief on all occasions.

Take it from me that the highway question is not so acute as some would have us believe in Mississippi. There are some who would have us believe that if a highway law for permanent roads is not enacted right away, the state will go kunkum. That's bunk. It is propaganda pure and simple. By this it is not meant that the right sort of a highway law would not be a most splendid thing for the state. But to sacrifice the form and the safety features of a highway law just for the sake of getting the name of having started concrete road building, is quite another thing, and yet there seems to be any number who are ready to O. K. any law. One of the most highly important things, house leaders say, is to so frame a law that money will not be wasted.

There are some who are saying that if Gov. Bilbo did not have a goodly number of friends demanding jobs as a result of highway legislation, he would be more conciliatory. No man of sound mind who knows anything about road building and who has ever ridden for any length of time on concrete roads and who knows anything about the cost of maintaining automobiles will hold that concrete roads are not money savers to the traveling public.

The "best minds" seem ready to gamble on the honesty and integrity of the present highway commission, and they make bold to assert that Gov. Bilbo's veiled assertions about waste and crookedness by the commission is all a bluff.

It is generally conceded, however, that Gov. Bilbo has made out a good case against the former chairman of the tax commis-

JOHN C. IRBY IS NO MORE

Mr. John C. Irby died of heart trouble at his home in Grenada Friday, June 21, at 9:30 o'clock, a. m. in the 63rd year of his age. Burial was had the next afternoon in Odd Fellows' cemetery, after appropriate funeral services had been conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. H. Holder, of the Methodist church at the family residence on Franklin Street. Mr. Irby had not enjoyed good health for two years or more.

Mr. Irby was a native of this locality. He had lived all his life in and near Grenada. By trade he was a brick mason. He was competent in his work and was faithful and trustworthy.

Some thirty years ago Mr. Irby made Miss Beatrice Murphy his bride, and together the two had walked hand in hand and met life's duties and responsibilities. Besides his wife, Mr. Irby is survived by seven children who are well esteemed and who show that it has been the endeavor of their parents to train them in the way they should go. Four of the children have reached their majority.

To the sorrowing, The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy.

Rotary Assembly In Session Here

District Governor-Elect Holds Conference of Incoming Club Executives in Grenada Wednesday—Fine Representation Here for Assembly. Visitors Meet with Grenada Club at Noon Luncheon.

Chauncey G. Smith, newly-elected Governor of the 16th district of Rotary International, whose home is in Clarksdale, presided over the district assembly which opened a one day's session in Grenada Wednesday morning. Incoming presidents and secretaries of the thirty clubs comprising the district were here to familiarize themselves in advance of taking office the first of July with their duties in their several official capacities.

The business sessions which were held at the Grenada High School formally opened at 9:00 o'clock Wednesday morning when Governor Smith called the gathering to order. After the introduction of various visitors, Andrew M. Carothers, president of the Grenada club, spoke a few words of welcome. Following the welcome address the district governor explained the purpose and scope of the meeting and discussed the governor's contact with clubs through his monthly letter, official visits, inter-city meetings, general correspondence and attendance reports. Club administration, which devolves upon the board of directors, the president, secretary and treasurer, was given a thorough study and an informal discussion of club and district problems was had.

After a recess for luncheon, the various plans of the organization for the year's work as outlined by Rotary International were explained and their application to each individual club worked out.

The day's program continued along similar lines, the assembly closing that evening after an address by Governor Smith, who chose as his subject, "Let Us Get on With Our Jobs".

Wednesday noon the visitors lunched with the local club and that evening meals were served only for the visitors. The ladies of the Methodist Church had charge of providing meals for the assembly and served them in the church dining room.

At the meeting Wednesday with the Grenada club, several delightful features of entertainment were given. Following the entertainment, Rotarian W. D. Boone, of the local club, with his artistic rendition of several songs, gave much amusement. Miss Catherine Lufkin was the accompanist and added much to the program. Miss Lula Mae Provine captivated the audience with two readings.

The district governor-elect, Chauncey Smith, the retiring district governor, Birney Innes, of Columbus, and Emory Folmar, of Troy, Ala., past district governor of the 26th district and here to represent the international committee, each made brief remarks.

ARE YOU GOING TO SIGN THE $65,000 NOTE?

(Editorial)

The election ordered for beat 1 for tomorrow, Saturday, June 29, is at hand. The proposition is to vote $65,000. in bonds to build another road out of Grenada and to the Carroll county line, headed towards Greenwood. The Sentinel has set before its readers the bonded indebtedness of the city of Grenada, of beat one (including Grenada) and of the entire county. That was its duty. The total bonded indebtedness of the county now is near one million dollars; the bonded indebtedness of the city of Grenada is $339,000. The outcry against taxes is heard every year about tax paying time.

PASTURES NECESSARY ON LIVE STOCK FARMS

With the rapidly growing interest in live stock production it is more and more realized that the cheapest and most profitable source of feed is pasture. Thus along with live stock development, good pasture development. Until recently little or no interest was shown in the development of permanent pastures, or the seeding of our pastures to tame grasses, the feeling being that pastures were of little value.

The bringing of the dairy cow has been one of the principal factors for the permanent movement. Buying feed has proved unprofitable and unsatisfactory from the standpoint of production. The cheapest and best feed has proved to be good pastures, pastures that are planted to tame grasses and legumes. The care of the pasture with the mowing machine where possible is of importance, as weeds and bushes often make grazing worthless. When bitter weeds and bushes are allowed to grow in a pasture they rob the soil of water and plant food. These tough, hardy weeds and bushes can endure greater hardships than the pasture plants and therefore do very great damage to pastures in hot, dry weather. Again the pasture plants are put to a great disadvantage by the cows grazing them and as far as possible they leave the tough and indigestible weeds. This gives the weeds additional advantage. The mowing machine and axe for weeds and bushes in the pasture are as important as the cultivator for cotton and corn. Where possible the pasture should be mowed as soon as the bitter weed blooms. Two or three mowings are necessary the first year when bitter weeds are bad. The first mowing should cut the weeds a little high so as to prevent them from blooming too low for the next mowing.

So now that we are catching up with our field work let's use our extra days in cutting the shade off of our pastures and where possible throw the bushes in the gullies and washes for it is surprising how they will catch up and soon grass will be growing in the bottom of these gullies and prevent further washing. August is the month for sowing Southern Spotted leaf Bur Clover in our pastures. This clover is the earliest of the clovers affording good grazing, as a rule, by Feb. 15th and lasting until the other varieties are ready for grazing. The seeding in August of this does not interfere with the preparation of our soils this fall for sowing a permanent pasture.

A mixture that is giving the best results in this section is Bur Clover, White Clover, Hop Clover, Lespedeza, Paspalum and carpet grass, which will give us good grazing from about Feb. 15th to around Nov. 1st. By planting our cotton middles in vetch and rye after the first picking we can have good grazing for our cows during the winter and early spring and this cover crop will prevent to a great extent the winter washing away of our soils and in the spring give us a good green crop of fertilizer to plow under which will make a material difference in the yield of the land so planted in next year's crop. By our cows grazing every possible day we get an even distribution of our fertilizer, and it has been shown by actual test that the fertilizer properly applied to the fields and the increase from a herd of cows is worth as much each year as the milk check, so let's not neglect this important part of our dairying.

Don't forget that next Tuesday is our regular monthly meeting day, the hour 10 a. m., place over Grenada Bank, and we are expecting just as many of the farmers and dairymen as can possibly get there to be on hand and let's have another real live meeting. We appreciated having you with us at the last meeting so you who were with us before come and bring someone else with you.

Dr. Wm. P. Ferguson's Second Letter Describing Visit to Los Angeles Equally as Interesting as First—Sings Praises of Golden West.

Editor Sentinel:

This may be an old story but it's one that I've just truly related - one I can vouch for, and I want to tell it to you that you may pass it along. It sounds like this: California the most wonderful State in the Union.

Los Angeles, the most cooperative city in the world. Everybody gives you the glad hand.

They seem the happiest in the land; And as soon as they can, They let you know exactly where they stand.

For Los Angeles - first last and always.

Well, it's Saturday, with the city in gala attire honoring the Shriners Convention. It's just beautiful everywhere and by night it's brighter than daylight. As I sit in daughter's library tonight, I look to the left and see towering mountains with beautiful castles on the lower slopes and with just a turn to my right I gaze into a valley filled with thousands of lights from the dwellings and streets below. At night it looks like a great ocean filled with lights.

We drove in and around Beverly Crest, Gold Canyon, Benedict Canyon and in and through the Sunset Hills section today. Saw Mr. Fairbanks and his wife, Miss Pickford's home, adjoining which is that of Charlie Chaplin, and nearby we view Harold Lloyd's estate - Buster Keaton, Tom Mix, Marion Davies, Pola Negri, Wallace Beery, Adolph Menjou and dozens of others, I do not remember. We drove through the beautiful grounds of the Beverly Hills Hotel and Ambassador, both beautiful hotels and very exclusive.

We take a turn and head into North Hollywood, called North Hollywood. Here we see vast stretches of land under subdivision management and many airports under construction and one visualizes great growth for the future.

We returned home and enjoyed a wonderful dinner and then the radio for a while and then drove down about fifteen blocks to the heart of Hollywood. Saw Warner Brothers beautiful theatre and enjoyed a wonderful show there. We are promised great things for tomorrow so now I'll put out the light and say good night.

purposes similar to that of the Young Men's Business Club, having been president of the Meridian club and having served as state president. He is, therefore, well qualified to speak to such a gathering.

The speaker strongly emphasized the necessity for snap, pointing out that without enthusiasm and interest in the meetings the organization could not properly function. He showed the need for cooperation upon the part of every member, saying that nothing could be accomplished unless each individual member lent his aid and support to every program promulgated by the club. Mr. Boosey cited several instances to show the importance of paying attention to the little things, those things sometimes considered inconsequential. He said that the club could accomplish much for Grenada and the surrounding territory.

W. D. Boone, prior to Mr. Boosey's address, entertained with several songs. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Catherine Lufkin.

The president, L. J. Doak, announced the appointment of the following committees:

The name "Golden Gate" was given to the entrance to San Francisco bay by Sir Francis Drake about 1578.

MANY SNAKES REPORTED

"Never Saw So Many", a Common Expression.

Those who have been trying their luck at fishing report that there are many snakes. So frequently the statement is made, "never saw so many snakes in all my life and they are unusually large". This seems to be universal where one visits a bayou or a lake remote and which are not usually on the fishermen's list.

Now one is inclined to look with more or less suspicion on any snake story for the reason it has been said that too much of a certain sort of liquid will make one see not only snakes but the devil and other things between the devil and snakes. However, it is safe to assert that the snake stories are not exaggerations as to numbers; possibly the size of many of the snakes is overstated. For example, John George and Junius Townes went to Davis bayou, northeast of Grenada about 6 miles, a few days ago, and they state that they saw so many snakes and that they were so large they decided that safety admonished them to leave the bayou notwithstanding they were having pretty fair luck catching fish. Junius Townes stated that he was sitting on a log angling for the finny tribe when he looked out a few feet in front of him and to his amazement saw a moccasin approaching that was so large he actually sloshed the waters of the bayou up on the banks on either side. His first impression was that the snake was 60 feet long and 40 feet in diameter.

But regardless of the size of Junius' snake, there must be a remarkably large number more than usual. This perhaps grows out of the fact that the game law serves to keep hunters out of the woods and the less the woods are traversed by man, the more snakes there are to multiply and the more snake heads there are to escape being bruised by man's heels.

The press reports many people being bitten by poisonous snakes. It therefore behooves fishermen to watch their step. It might be well for them to carry a shotgun along so as to make sure of slaughtering every devil in the form of a snake.

GRENADA WINS TWICE

The Grenada baseball team defeated Oxford in two games on the local field, one last Thursday and the other Tuesday. Both games were close and exciting, with good fielding and light hitting. The first game was won by a score of 3-1 and the second game was 2-1.

In the first game, Perkins, of the local team, held Oxford to one hit, while the Grenada boys could get only four hits off Elliott, Oxford speed ball pitcher.

The second game was a pitcher's battle between Lawhorn of Oxford and McElroy of Grenada, with McElroy having a little edge on the Oxford boy. Both pitchers hurled fine games.

The Grenada team is composed of local boys and has been playing a brand of ball which deserves better support than it has received from the local fans. The team has a good record against several semi-pro teams and, with the proper support from local baseball fans, should be able to give Grenada good baseball for the entire summer.

CASES ARE NOLLE PROSSO

Several cases that attracted quite a deal of interest over the county due to the prominence of those involved and referred to in these columns several weeks ago came up for hearing in Holcomb last Saturday. One case was against the county game warden, R. E. Hall, who was charged with killing a dog and the others charged sundry Grenada countians with hunting game driven out of its natural habitat on account of high water.

The case against the warden was dismissed and he withdrew the charges he had filed against the hunters with the statement that he believed all of them were acting in good faith and that none of them would knowingly violate the game laws. However, he warned them that he believed he could secure a conviction and that a repetition would mean that they would be brought to trial. Those against whom affidavits were made contended that the game, in this instance, wild turkeys, were in their natural habitat and that they were not affected by the high water. Had the charges been pressed, the cases would have been hotly contested.

Local Water Supply Not Contaminated

Report to City Health Officer from State Health Department Shows Drinking Water Is Safe—Standpipe Recovered and New Reservoir Built at Power Plant—Matter Muchly Discussed Lately.

There has been much said during the past few weeks about the city water of Grenada which was prompted, no doubt, because there is just one case, and only one of typhoid fever in the town. The Sentinel has gone to some extra pains to look into the matter and to discuss, with those who ought to know, the condition of the water.

This paper holds no brief for any city official. There has been some criticism about allowing the standpipe to get so badly decayed before it was removed. This paper does not know about that, but suffice it to say at least for the present that the standpipe roof has been repaired and that there has been built a new reservoir at the power plant.

The city water has been analyzed twice this year. That is not only not unusual, but as this paper is advised, has been the rule of the city health official for a number of years.

The Sentinel has advised with the City Health Officer, Dr. T. J. Brown, and he gives assurance that every needed attention has been given the water, and that he has made it his special personal task to take nothing for granted. Dr. Brown appreciates fully the responsibility that rests upon him as health officer and The Sentinel feels warranted in saying that when he gives his personal word about any matter, it may be absolutely relied on.

Dr. Brown submitted to this office Thursday morning a letter dated Jackson, June 22, from Dr. H. A. Kroeze, of the bureau of sanitary engineering of the state department of health, from which the following quotation is taken: "These results show the water to be free of contamination on above date. Judging from these results, we would say that the water is of excellent sanitary quality at this time."

The tests referred to in the above were three in number. One was drawn from a hydrant in the yard of E. C. Neely, and one from J. L. Hill's, and the third from Frank Thompson's.

The Sentinel would publish the letter in full but the laymen would not understand the terms used unless a physician were present to do the explaining.

ANNUAL LEAGUE ASSEMBLY IN SESSION AT COLLEGE

The annual assembly of the Epworth League of the North Mississippi conference of the Methodist Church is now in session at Grenada College. The assembly opened Monday and will continue through the week. Approximately 200 delegates are in attendance with nearly every league represented.

These annual gatherings of the leaguers have come to mean a great deal in the work of the organization in the various Sunday Schools of the conference. An enthusiastic group of young people is always present to put in an intensive week's study to better prepare themselves to carry on their work for another year and they gather much inspiration from what they learn at the assembly.

Those in attendance from out of town are taken care of in the commodious dormitories of the college, their meals being served in the college dining hall. Recreation, as well as study, plays an important part in the program mapped out for each day and interest is maintained throughout the week by carefully planned schedules.

PLANS FOR PAGEANT NEARLY COMPLETED

Prospects Great for One of Greatest Crowds in Grenada's History to Attend "Pageant of Progress" at Fairgrounds on July 4th. Great Interest Shown by Many Communities.

Plans are about completed for the staging of the "pageant of progress" at the North Mississippi fairgrounds in Grenada at 8 o'clock on the evening of July 4th. B. F. Roche, of Grenada, who has written and staged several plays in recent years, is directing the affair and he is enthusiastic over the prospects for one of the largest crowds ever in Grenada. Practically all communities who will send representatives to compete for the title to be given the queen of the pageant, "Miss North Mississippi", have chosen young ladies, all of them attractive and upholding the traditions of the old South, and eight young women are in a spirited contest to represent Grenada. The queen will be selected on the night of the pageant by disinterested judges and will preside over the court during the presentation of the various features of the program.

Standing of contestants in the race to be "Miss Grenada" follows:

|--------------------------|-----|
| Miss Sally Billups | 820 |
| Miss Mary Jeffries | 780 |
| Miss Francis Maude Davis | 740 |
| Miss Mary Ida Sharp | 740 |
| Miss Lynn Dunavant | 650 |
| Miss Thelma Jackson | 640 |
| Miss Hazel Inman | 640 |
| Miss Margaret Trusty | 600 |

Several large corporations and a number of public utilities that have had much to do in recent years with bringing this section of Mississippi to the forefront will take part in the program which is intended to mirror before the audience the progress of north Mississippi in agriculture, dairying and other industries. A chorus of beautiful young maidens, attractively costumed, will lend color to the pageant and this feature promises to be one of the outstanding events on the program.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal and the Memphis Evening Appeal will each have a staff representative here for the pageant and photos of the queen and her attendants are to be published. The interest the pageant is attracting is evidenced by the following letter to Mr. Roche from the Tri-State Editor of the Evening Appeal, W. A. Copeland:

"The Evening Appeal is greatly interested in the proposed industrial pageant planned at Grenada on the Fourth of July, seeing in it one of the most progressive programs proposed in North Mississippi for some time, from which much good should result to that section of the state.

"Interested as it is in all civic and progressive moves in our territory, desiring to give necessary publicity as its contribution to such movements, we would appreciate your cooperation in giving that pageant its necessary news space in the Evening Appeal, which, as you no doubt know, is the most widely read newspaper in Northern Mississippi.

"While we have already carried a story on your celebration, I would like, from time to time, to publish in our paper other information concerning the event, the plans being made, etc.

"With a number of other towns in our territory expected to participate in the celebration and pageant, the event has developed into more than local interest. As a matter of fact, we think so well of your 'Pageant of Progress' idea that both George Moreland and myself are planning to be on hand the Fourth of July to witness the wonderful program you have planned.

"Perhaps the best publicity medium would come from publishing pictures of the girls entered in the beauty contest to select 'Miss North Mississippi'. I would appreciate it if you would send me the names of the girls as they enter, and their pictures, if available. These we will publish as they are received. We would also want, of course, to print, perhaps on the front page, a photo of the winner, with her maids of honor."

MEETING BEGINS SUNDAY

The members of the Christ of Christ in Grenada announce the beginning next Sunday, June 30, of a two weeks' revival meeting which will be held under canvas on the public school grounds. Services will be held twice daily, the preaching to be done by W. B. West, of Charleston, Miss., and the singing to be led by Leonard Kirk, of Hampshire, Tenn. The local membership of the church is anticipating a great meeting and invites the community in general to attend any or all of the services.

SURPRISED AT COMMERCIAL APPEAL EDITORIAL

In view of the long established record of the Commercial Appeal to refrain from injecting its opinions into factional political differences in Mississippi, we were rather surprised to see the editorial which appeared in its issue of June 23, under the caption, "Never mind factions; build roads".

We were still more greatly surprised to see it stated in this editorial that Gov. Bilbo "was nominated over two very sorry opponents". We are persuaded that the editorial, and particularly does the statement in reference to Gov. Bilbo's "sorry opponents" enforce this idea, was written by some gosling fresh on his job and whose inexperience is only exceeded by his lack of information as to Mississippi's affairs and conditions. We feel confident that the editorial did not pass under the eye of Capt. Fauntleroy, managing editor.

We imagine that Governor Bilbo even would not appreciate the statement that he had only "two sorry opponents" otherwise he would not have won.

As to whether or not the advice sought to be given Mississippi and the legislature as to agreeing on a road bill now will be taken, even if it be necessary for the Governor to have his way solely, remains to be seen. But this one thing is true, editorials of the kind referred to do not increase the power of the Commercial Appeal for real usefulness in Mississippi.

THE LEGISLATURE AGAIN AT THE BAT.

The Mississippi legislature assembled Monday in compliance with the call of Gov. Bilbo. If the Governor's administration makes a record for nothing else it will make one for more special legislative meets than any of its predecessors.

At this writing, as the boys used to say when at grips ready for a wrestle, "cut your capers", the lower house and the Governor are saying to each other. The Governor talks soothingly about laying aside factional differences, but the opposition say that he wants them to do all the laying aside.

As The Sentinel has so many times pointed out, the rock on which agreement seems to be stranded is that of whether the Governor shall appoint the highway commissioners or whether they shall be elected by the people.

The lower house is adamant. The Governor is more than anxious to have the power of appointing, all of which calls to mind a couplet that some Democrat got off during the days of the administration of Benj. Harrison when his little grandson was an occupant of the White House and when Vice-President Levi Morton owned a hotel in which there was a bar room:

"Quay runs the pie counter,
Levi runs the bar,
Baby runs the White House
And d-n it here we are."

BISHOP CANNON HAS LOWERED THE FLAG OF HIS CHURCH.

In our judgment Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, has lowered the flag of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The revelations which are admitted by him, as to speculations through the New York Stock Exchange convict him of a gross indiscretion and, according to our understanding, reveal him as a violator of one of the prohibitions of his church. When caught with the goods, the Bishop said, in effect, "Yes, this is not the only time. I have been trying stock speculation for years; others do it, why not I?"

Many regard stock speculations in the same way that they do race horse betting, trying one's luck at cards and sundry other things where one expects to get the other fellow's dollar. This idea may be wrong, but it has long dominated the minds of those who make fine distinctions and who think Holy Writ condemns gaming. The stock market is regarded as the place where the big fellows play the game.

The Bishop's biggest day with the New York Stock Exchange was April 10, 1928, when his buyings and sellings amounted to $133,000. That was going some.

We are wondering what would be the answer from the other world if the voice of Bishop Asbury could be heard as to one of his successors doing what Bishop Cannon has done?

Bishop Asbury was a pioneer Bishop. He staked his life every day in traveling through the wildernesses of Virginia and other colonies preaching and teaching the Gospel. His weapon was his faith in God and his devotion to his task.

What answer might one expect from John Wesley if inquiry were made of him about a bishop keeping one eye on his church and the other on the New York Stock Exchange with an occasional glance with the church eye watching a political battle?

We are wondering if the statement credited to Mr. Wickersham, attorney general in Taft's cabinet, and now the head of President Hoover's law and crime revision commission, was in any way prompted by Bishop Cannon's stock speculations when, on June 18, in an address at Roanoke, Va., on the work before his commission, Mr. Wickersham is quoted by the press as follows:

"Lamenting the lost power of the church over the people, Mr. Wickersham asserted that the sacerdotal office can no longer impose on or impress any but the unlettered and the intellectually indolent."

While we do not agree with Mr. Wickersham but must admit that there is much to substantiate his statement, nevertheless the fact that a man of Mr. Wickersham's ability and prominence should make such a declaration just at this time ought to make church leaders take a reckoning of the drift of the Old Ship of Zion. "The gates of hell shall not prevail against the church", but that assurance does not mean that those in command may not for the time being run the Old Ship into perilous waters.

We are a Methodist, and are therefore in a position to make comment on the acts of one of the leaders of the church without laying ourselves open to the charge of sectarian bias. Furthermore, since the Bishop has anointed himself also a political leader, it becomes the duty of the press to direct public attention to the ultimate end of ones descending from the spiritual to wrestle with those who should know best about matters political, especially when his tactics show that it is a case of rule or ruin.

In our judgment, the minister who turns aside to take his place in the speculative line with other men is throwing into the pawn one of the great jewels which the Master has entrusted to him.

It is well for all men to watch their step. It is good to reflect daily on the Savior's warning, "For where your treasure is there will your heart be also." "Let your loins be girded about and your lights burning".

The fields were never ripe for a harvest, and the need of well equipped, consecrated men in the pulpit was never more urgent than today. We need the Christian ministry, so badly and so continuously, that when one strays into questionable fields, a certain sort of humiliation is experienced by all true believers.

If the great Methodist church does not administer some sort of discipline to the Bishop, then, in our opinion, it will have failed at a vital point. It might be well for the powers that be in the church to ponder the words of Bishop Collins Denny, uttered only a few days ago and about a matter in which Bishop Cannon has shown great zeal. "I fear", said Bishop Denny, "it will mean the ultimate division of the church".

Let it be hoped that Bishop Cannon may repent of his inexcusable blunder, and that he will "go and sin no more".

PRESENTS FARMER'S CASE TO AMERICAN JURY.

We have before us a book entitled, "America Challenged", published by the Macmillan Company of New York, Boston and Atlanta.

The author is Lewis F. Carr, of Dayton, Ohio, who has farmed in the South and in the corn belt, hence has had ample opportunity to see farm conditions from the farmer's viewpoint.

The author presents the farmer's problems ably, conservatively, comprehensively and convincingly and without bias or prejudice to any other calling or business. He makes the farmer's problems the Nation's problems, and in this he is eminently correct. There is none of the Coxey and his army ideas in the discussion.

There is nothing of the ipse dixit about the book. The author lays no claim to discovery. He begins with the days of George Washington who was a farmer, and a successful one in his day, and traces farm life and farm conditions up to the present time. He paints no rainbows but presents facts. He glosses over nothing; he is radical in nothing. Through the whole book runs marked evidence of a deep sense of responsibility and a patriotic endeavor to render not only the farmer but all other classes a distinct service. He uses the searchlight of experience and of observation. He proceeds upon the idea that that nation which disregards its rural life is subjecting its underpinnings to that corroding and weakening which always come when the pestiferous and selfish hold sway. He suggests that the neglect of farm life had much to do with the decline and the fall of Persia, Egypt, Greece, Rome and Spain and that this is one of the main sources of the ills that afflict England today.

He successfully controverts the oft-repeated assertion that the farmer is responsible for the ills that afflict him, an assertion which he insists is usually made because of the lack of information and because of a refusal to see an object but from one angle.

Due consideration is given the idea that while industry has been able to make use of every new invention the farm, often because of physical surroundings, has been compelled to deny itself many labor saving devices.

The author overwhelms those who insist that the farmer "is making money" with proof, official and otherwise, to the contrary. The only farmer, the author holds, who is making any money, is the individual farmer, the one who rises with the break of day and who is an individual laborer. He presents a balance sheet of what was made on the farms of the United States for one year, 1924-25, which shows that the total farm receipts were $12,640,000,000, produced at a cost of $17,679,000,000.

Manufacturing, he shows, has been the pet child of the Nation. There can be no serious question about his being correct in this particular. The laws of the country and the rules and regulations of commerce have favored the manufacturer.

The center of the manufacturing industry, the east and New England, has been stabilized; its business has not rocked with the financial earthquakes which have so often afflicted the balance of the country. For instance, he cites that during the period from 1920 to 1925, the manufacturing center of the country, (Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut) suffered but 13 bank failures while the middle Atlantic states, including the district of Columbia, had only 32. In the same period the South had 583 and the West 1576 bank failures.

The author lays no blame to either political party or to any set of politicians. There is not a partisan line in the book. The author champions no particular legislation, nor does he condemn any of the measures recently put forward.

Boiled down, he seeks to have the farmer given an even chance with industry and gives abundant reasons to show that if the farmer comes into his own, he must act cooperatively.

We commend "America Challenged" to the thoughtful reading of the brethren of the press and to all who are concerned about getting the farmer out of the wilderness of haphazard efforts into that daylight which is his by right of inheritance. A perusal of the book is bound to provoke serious thought among the serious minded.

The Maker did not give Adam and Eve a store, a factory, a bank or a college but a garden which he told them to work, "to keep it".

The book is an able presentation of the cause of the farmer to the jury of American thought.

CHURCH LEADERS HAVE PROBLEMS JUST AS OTHERS DO.

This is a day when problems are crowding themselves with a velocity never before known upon all thoughtful citizens. The church leaders have their problems just as all others do.

The good minister, we often think, finds himself in a mesh of things which the higher-ups have placed on him and which, in his reasoning moments, he thinks ill-advised, yet he is so tied by organization that he just puts on a bold front and makes a Macedonian call on those of his flock. There are so many extraneous demands that the minister oftentimes does not have the time to make that preparation for his pulpit that he feels is due his congregation and himself.

We sometimes think that the work undertaken by churches puts them in the jazz jamboree quite like the balance of the world.

One of the big things so greatly stressed by the churches for the past twenty years or more is, "we must provide for the young folks".

A godly man who served one of the churches in Grenada said on one occasion, in discussing the "young folks' movement", "get out of the way, the young folks are coming". Commenting on this we heard a well read man and a clear thinker say not long since, "Well, the young folks are here".

It has seemed to us that on occasions the desire has so pronounced to "get hold of the young folks", that the church has stepped down a little. Whenever the church lowers its standards to meet any halfway ideas, or to get into the popular current, it does serious harm to the cause it should be trying to further all the time.

The church is building on a rock, one never failing, never changing principle. Principles never change; customs do change.

Never before were such efforts made to get "hold of the young people" as is being made today. Never before, if we are to believe half we hear and read, were so many young people thought to be above reproach straying into forbidden paths and drinking from the cup of pleasure and passion.

Recreational and social activities galore have been tried and are still well in the ascendant. The efforts of all the churches to give the "young folks" that which appeals to young life within the church, have been so well emphasized that the harvest anticipated should be abundant. It may be, that the harvest is being reaped but to many it does not have that appearance of the right sort of harvest when the country as a whole is considered.

It might be worth while for Protestants to give consideration to the actions of a certain Jewish congregation which has been devoting much energy and a great deal of money to activities for the young people within the past dozen years or more. This church has decided to turn backward.

The committee named to consider the change reported that, "that the voice of the synagogue is drowned out in the midst of the tumult and the noise of many activities", and "the hope that young people would be attracted to worship and religious study through the magnetism of dances, plays, athletics and parties has not been realized. The appeal of the synagogue is not heightened through the bait of amusement."

There can be no substitute for the home and for the right sort of training in the home. There is no substitute for these things.

Too much does it appear today that too many fathers and mothers are entrusting the training of their children, both in secular and spiritual matters, to others. It is rare indeed that a well ordered home does not show up in the lives of the children of that time.

According to our way of thinking, this Jewish congregation has taken a step that will have to be followed sooner or later by their Protestant friends. Multiplied organizations and activities, gymnasiums, swimming pools and some one to mollycoddle the boys when out of the sight of the home, cannot be substituted for the Ten Commandments.

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully."

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it."

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. PETITION FOR PARDON

To His Excellency, Theo. G. Bilbo, Governor of Mississippi.
We the under signed citizens of Grenada County, Miss. do most respectfully petition and ask that your Excellency grant a pardon to Lewis Liles, who, on the thirty-first day of Jan. 1929 in Circuit Court of Grenada County, Miss. plead guilty to the charge of Grand Larceny and was sentenced on the thirty-first day of Jan. 1929 to the term of 1 year in the State Penitentiary of said State for said crime.

We respectfully show to your Excellency that this is Liles' first offense, that he is a young man of twenty-four years, that he has a wife and one small child that are dependent on him for their livelihood, that the amount involved in the case was the small amount of thirty dollars, that he has been a respected citizen of Grenada County, Miss. since childhood. We further wish to show to your Excellency that prison life to a boy like this is not for the betterment for either society or the individual, that Liles feels deeply the disgrace that he has brought upon himself and his family and we believe that if he is given a pardon that he will in the future make a better citizen.

We are advised that he has made a model prisoner since his incarceration and respectfully submit and ask that your Excellency grant him a pardon.

Respectfully submitted,

REVIEW: KINGS AND PROPHETS OF JUDAH'S DECLINE

GOLDEN TEXT—I have loved thee with an everlasting love, therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories, Retold.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Learning to Serve God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—True and False Leaders.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's True Prophets.

The quarterly review always brings its problems. No set method can be prescribed. The grade, the aptitude of the pupils and the genius of the teacher are determining factors of the problem. For seniors and adults, two methods are suggested.

I. Character Study of the Kings and Prophets of the Period.

Biography is always fascinating and profitable. In the use of this method, assignments should be made a week ahead. As to the kings of this period, a study should be made of their strong and weak points, and suitable lessons be drawn from them. As to the prophets, the nature of the ministry of each should be studied.

This method involves the terse statement of the salient facts of each lesson with its central teaching. This method, to be effective, calls for assignments to be made a week in advance. Different minds will greatly vary. The following statements are offered as suggestions:

Lesson for April 7.

Either at the beginning of Isaiah's ministry or later when called to a deeper experience, he had a vision of the majesty and holiness of the living God. The leading lesson is that a real sight of the living God discloses the sinfulness of man. Before acceptable service can be rendered sin must be removed.

Lesson for April 14.

In leading the people back to God Hezekiah proclaimed a passover. The passover was a memorial of the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of a sacrificial lamb. The lamb typified Christ. The only way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord.

Lesson for April 21.

Isaiah sought to comfort the people by assuring them that the Lord God as the Messiah was coming to reign over the earth and to deliver them from bondage, and shepherd them. The only possible deliverance from the world is the coming of Jesus Christ and the establishment of His Kingdom.

Lesson for April 28.

Salvation of God's people was to be accomplished through the suffering of their Messiah. At Christ's first coming He suffered the penalty of our sin. His suffering resulted in a spiritual progeny. Life out of death is the last law governing the universe—natural and spiritual.

Lesson for May 5.

While the temple was in process of renovation the law of God was found and read to the king. This brought great disturbance to his mind as he realized the enormity of the nation's sins. God's Word has power to convict of sin and effect a reformation and revival.

Lesson for May 12.

God called Jeremiah before he was born, overcame his timidity, and sent him to warn his people of coming judgment. Though violently opposed and persecuted, God delivered him. God will protect those who obey Him.

Lesson for May 19.

Jeremiah called the people to obedience to God's Word. The only way to avert God's judgment is to return unto Him and render obedience to His Word.

Lesson for May 26.

God will restore Israel to Palestine. Israel will return and possess the land. Jesus Christ will then come and enter into a new covenant, writing the law of God in their hearts.

Lesson for June 2.

Because Jeremiah faithfully declared God's law, he was hated and cast into a dungeon. Those who faithfully declare God's law shall suffer persecution, but God will deliver them.

Lesson for June 9.

The Rechabites out of filial loyalty to their father abstained from the use of wine. Jeremiah gave them a public test as an example to Judah. Obedience to earthly fathers brings blessings, but obedience to God brings greater blessings.

Lesson for June 16.

Judah went into captivity according to God's Word. Not only part of God's Word shall fail.

Lesson for June 23.

Psalms 103 is entirely devoted to praise to God. Those who have experienced the life of God in the soul will bless Him with all their being.

WHAT YOU EXPECT OF CHRYSLER

The imposing succession of Chrysler accomplishments has led the public instinctively to expect more of Chrysler than of other cars—and it is the completeness with which Chrysler fulfills these higher expectations that explains the ever-rising tide of Chrysler success.

You expect of Chrysler a charming individuality in style, and you get it.

You expect a livelier and more thrilling spirit of performance, and you get it.

You expect a more luxurious feeling of cradled comfort, and you get it. You expect a greater sum total of actual value in Chrysler, and you find it.

Chrysler today exerts a tremendous influence over the entire industry—and justifiably. In the five years of its meteoric rise, Chrysler has done more than any other force in the automobile world to revolutionize and modernize motor car standards.

That is the reason why the volume of Chrysler sales has increased to such mighty proportions—and why Chrysler enjoys such prestige in 93 countries.

We invite you to take a Chrysler demonstration—expecting more of Chrysler than of any car within several hundred dollars of its price.

SOUTH AFRICAN RECORDS BROKEN BY DE SOTO SIX

Averaging 62.7 miles an hour on a 24-hour continuous run, including stops for re-fueling, a De Soto Six roadster has set a new speed record for South Africa.

The test was supervised and checked by officials of the Royal Automobile Club of South Africa, who are attempting to establish an international speedway on the South African plains. The details have just been received by L. G. Peed, general sales manager for the De Soto Motor Corporation, at Detroit, from press clippings sent to him from Chrysler Motors officials in Cape Town, telling of the De Soto's run over the now famous Blue Bird Pan, the site South Africans hoped would rival Daytona Beach in Florida as a continental speedway over which the present world's speed record for motor cars would be lowered.

The De Soto roadster covered 1,505 miles at an average of 62.7 miles an hour within four miles of an hour of the world's record for three to five-liter cars, recently made by a Chrysler car in France. The Blue Bird Pan is all but inaccessible, situated on the edge of Bushmanland, 50 miles northeast of Brandvlei, in the heart of the African wilderness. It is like an enormous crater and gets its South African name 'Verneuk' or 'Cheating' pan from its reputation for mirages. It was here Capt. Malcolm Campbell, famous English racing driver, made his unsuccessful effort not long ago to win the world's speed record, the pan taking the name now of the Captain's racing car. Officials chose the De Soto roadster to test the track before the Blue Bird trial was held.

Volcanic Lure

The reason for the return of farmers to dangerous slopes of volcanoes is explained by Dr. Henry S. Washington of Carnegie Institute by the fact that the lava flows are the best vineyard soil on earth. Most of the best grapes are grown on lava soil in areas surrounding long, extinct volcanoes and sometimes, as on Mount Rina, around mountains which occasionally grow violent.

TELLS OF CHINESE WAR GOD

Editor Sentinel:

Wars in China suggest sending you "Wu-ti" the Chinese god of war. He is seated. Behind him is a banner-bearer. The general idea about Wu-ti is that he delights in war. That is not the Chinese idea of him. Once, a man nine feet high, he did great exploits in war, yet he is best known for his loyalty to his friends and for protecting the weak. Officials and scholars worship him as the ideal of loyalty, soldiers do it to make them brave and protect them in battle, and the people worship him to protect them from war's horrors. He's called "Peace Bringer, Protector, Great God of Loyalty." But he makes not peace, nor protects nor makes loyal, so is a failure. He's also called "Warrior Prince." As to that name he's a great success! In spite of the claims of Nanking that China is united wars break out constantly, the Chinese war-lords fighting each other—not fighting for patriotism nor for freedom but for money—to squeeze money from rich and poor alike. The most fighting is where the loot is richest. Reports make this war-mess a real Chinese puzzle; but keep it in mind it's just a big scramble for money and power—then there's no puzzle about it except the puzzle as to how men can be so cruel as to bring such havoc and pain for money. But they know not Christ. We must stay and preach—not run.

Recently I have received letters from America suggesting that since "China has altogether gone to the bad and the Chinese are absolutely impossible" and since our "work among them has gone for nothing," then I should "quit and come home." I hope you don't think thus. The masses of Chinese though reminding one of "dumb driven cattle" are still friendly as ever. The war-lords, the Nationalists, the Reds, the bandits, wars and evil propaganda are disturbing elements; but they are not China nor the Chinese. Terrible they are; but they do not represent the Chinese and their attitude toward us. Most of our Christians have kept loyal and have stood by us in time of real danger. This is true not only of Christians; but of many heathen too who have helped and protected us at much risk to themselves. The troubles in China have come from a fiercely aggressive and "noisy minority," who make the great mass suffer untold hardships. The Chinese are not "impossible" and what Christianity has done for China during all these years has not "gone for nothing" but is planted deep in myriads of hearts of men, women and children. Shall we desert the Chinese because a comparatively few are wicked? A thousand times no.

Not only for Christianity's sake but for humanity's sake the Chinese common people's need calls us today. The wars and bandits have made sad havoc in many places and the famines, caused in some places by too little rain and others by too much rain, have brought millions to starvation. The Chinese "Government" has made a wonderfully great show of helping on paper but has done comparatively nothing to save the starving. The Chinese Red Cross and Famine Relief people are working hard but their efforts and their funds are hopelessly inadequate for the task. And for some reason very little help has come from organizations abroad, so that the famine-stricken people are indeed in an exceedingly bad way. I have never known a time when the lot of the common people was as hopeless as it is today. Oh that I were a multimillionaire and were a thousand young men so that I could throw myself into the breach and help save at least the mothers and children who are dying like flies in many places in China. I am not in a place ravaged by famine but should any readers of your excellent paper desire to help save life they can send gifts to me by draft, personal check, P. O. Money Order, or by U. S. Notes in registered letter and I shall do my best to see that they go to the most needy places in the famine districts, and so their gifts will all go to feed the hungry and relieve suffering. With best wishes and kindest regards,

Yours in Christ's glad service.

INFORMATION WITH "MIS" BEFORE IT

The following very common sense editorial appeared in Winston County Journal, of May 31. There are so many advice givers abroad now that more doses are being prepared than there are patients to take them. The esteemed Winston County Journal blurted out what almost everybody who has used his calculator and who knows even primary methods of arithmetic, should know. This is a day of make-believe; of "bull" furnished the newspapers and when so many are traveling up a blind alley whooping and hurrahing with the hope that they will find the rainbow touching the ground at the other end of the alley.

"There is being more advice and 'information' doled out to the farmers through the press and otherwise, today, than ever before, and from all appearances less of it is being taken seriously than ever before. Among the reasons why this is so, no doubt, is because so much of it is worthless, and the farmer realizes it. For instance, we still have men of prominence, or men in prominent places, who are advocating and urging the farmer of Mississippi to plant wheat. The man who has not learned that wheat is not a profitable crop in our state, when compared to the hundreds of other crops, is not a competent man to advise the farmer. Flour is the cheapest article the farmer buys. In fact one gets more for his money in a barrel of flour than he gets in any other article he buys. And the average farmer can grow enough corn, potatoes, cotton, or peas, on the same land that is required to make one barrel of flour, to buy two barrels of flour, and we know whereof we speak. The lost motion, ill advised propaganda being issued out to the farmer from our government, and other departments of agriculture, is in reality detrimental to the average farmer, and it should be censured. So much of it is ill advised and the farmer knows it to be wrong and worthless, that it produces an indifference on the part of the average farmer toward that that is good. One of the most detrimental practices now existing among the farmers, is the indifference and lack of knowledge as to what crop is best suited to certain lands. Mississippi is not a wheat country, as compared to the north and west, and it is folly for the farmers of Mississippi to plant wheat in preference to more suitable crops, since their wheat bread is the cheapest article they buy. It is about the only article, however, that the live-at-home farmer should go into the market to buy, that he can raise at home."

Bumpus-Stevens.

A wedding, the announcement of which comes as a surprise to their large circle of friends throughout the state, was beautifully, though quietly, solemnized in Jackson Friday evening at 10 o'clock between Miss Mildred Y. Stevens, of Grenada, and Mr. Guy Bumpus, of Jackson.

The living room of the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Ragsdale McNeil, was the scene of the wedding. It had been decorated with a variety of cut flowers.

The bride, who was unusually lovely in a beautiful white georgette dress, entered with the matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. James R. Strain, who was attractively gowned in pink georgette. Both carried arm bouquets of garden flowers.

Mr. James R. Strain attended the groom as best man. Dr. Walter P. Capers, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, performed the ceremony. Only Mr. and Mrs. McNeil and a few close friends were present.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Stevens, of Grenada. She received her education at Grenada High School and Grenada College, having been graduated only this spring from the latter institution. She is very accomplished and possesses a most attractive personality. She has received special training as renders her especially fitted to assume her new role.

The groom was graduated from A. and M. College, having prepared himself to be a civil engineer. He now has a very responsible position with the Mississippi Power and Light Co., with headquarters in Jackson.

The happy couple are spending their honeymoon at Grenada, Aberdeen and Tupelo. When they return to Jackson they will be at home at the Walthall Hotel.

The Sentinel joins their friends in congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. G. W. Lambert entertained Wednesday evening with a two table bridge party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sharkey Campbell, a very recent bride and groom. The flowers used in decorating were a wedding present to the young couple.

Mrs. Campbell was becomingly gowned in one of her trousseau frocks of orchid georgette. Several games were enjoyed and it was then found that Mr. Campbell held high score. He was given an attractive smoking tray. Miss Helen Rose was presented low score prize, a unique pin cushion. An ice course in pink and white was served.

Besides the honorees there were present: Mr. and Mrs. F. V. McCullar, Mrs. F. P. Schilling, Miss Helen Rose and Mr. Edwin Neely.

Mrs. Perry Hostess.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perry, Jr., was the scene of a lovely gathering Thursday night when they honored their sister, Mrs. Cliff Emond with a five table bridge party.

The house was beautifully decorated with variegated flowers. After the games were finished Mrs. Perry served her guests refreshing punch with sandwiches and cheese straws.

Mrs. E. L. Bass had highest score and was given an attractive hat rack. Mrs. Roger Upshaw and Mrs. John Duncan cut for guest prize and Mrs. Duncan who won was given a pretty flower holder. The honoree was presented a pair of hose.

MY CRAPE-MYRTLE TREE

When July enters into the summer And days are aglow with bright and shining heat, Hand in hand there comes along with her, A guest, I love so dearly to greet.

'Tis true she ever quietly lingers, But this yearly visit is welcom'd by me, For so much joy to my heart is given, With the blooming of my crape-myrtle tree.

Daintily gown'd in chiffon, And filling my room with roseate hue, How very dear you are, my crape-myrtle tree No one knows but the butterflies and you.

Through long summer days your wavy plumage Seems to beckon the butterflies and me, And we readily respond to your invitation For we do love you, my crape-myrtle tree.

Oh but memories too cling around you Of dearly lov'd voices out of the past In pride, ever praising your bright beauty And trusting through passing time it would last.

All over our great, and lovely southland In beauty of color you bloom so free And honors with our stately magnolia Should surely be yours my crape-myrtle tree. Emma G. Moore, Oakland, Miss.

Miss Jessie Stinson, of Avalon, spent Thursday in Grenada. Mrs. Addington, of Memphis, spent Tuesday in Grenada.

So many have been interested enough to call at our office and view the different models we have on display, that we have had little opportunity to make outside calls. We hope to see all of you in the very near future and advise you not to select an electric refrigerator until you have seen the many preferred features of the Copeland.

The News Editor turned to the Telephone

When floods isolated southern Alabama, and press time approached with little definite news of the disaster or the extent of the damage, the news editors of the Birmingham, Alabama, Age-Herald naturally turned to the long distance operators.

They knew from experience that the telephone service would not fail if loyalty, courage and human ingenuity could maintain it. The story of what happened is told in this letter from Harry C. Frye, assistant managing editor of the paper:

"May I express the appreciation of the Birmingham Age-Herald for the one hundred per cent cooperation and effectiveness of the long distance service during the southern Alabama flood disaster. . . . In twenty-five years' experience in the newspaper business I have found that I can meet and overcome most any difficulty in gathering news beyond the local borders simply by turning the responsibility over to the telephone operators. They have never failed me, and in the flood crisis your operators performed not only true to form, but met and overcame new problems with an ingenuity that is beyond all understanding of a humble newspaper man."

The telephone organization appreciates this tribute which encourages them in their determination that service shall not fail.

WRITES OF GLORIES OF WESTERN STATES

to a wonderful sermon over the radio we start out for our first glimpse of the mighty Pacific Ocean.

As we enter via Wilshire Boulevard into the Palisades, we are delighted, and as we drive down the incline, we view thousands of bathers along the clean, sandy shores and there are amusement houses by the score, and if I wrote for a month, I could still say more, and I wonder why I never came here before. Oh, it's all so grand, this mighty ocean's roar, sea gulls and peanut hulls - yes, it's just like a big circus. Finally we park our car and hail one of the many little hand controlled cars that fly to and fro along the walkways from the different beaches. The fare is 5c and 10c - one side is ocean view and one side is mountain and city.

The day passed so quickly that it seemed like moments. Oh, I must tell you that I saw cars solidly parked for a distance of 20 to 30 miles besides all the parking fields, so you can imagine what a vast multitude of people gather along the ocean beaches.

Now we return to Hollywood and home to hear another sermon by radio and this sermon was in the form of a civic message by the Rev. Robert P. Schuler of the Trinity Methodist Church. It was a wonderful talk in which he advised the people of Los Angeles to vote for Mr. Porter for mayor. This election is very close at hand. Bob Schuler, as he is known far and wide, is doing a great work out here and speaks over the radio twice a week. Also heard Angelus Temple over the radio - the Aimee McPherson church.

Monday, June 3rd. A lovely breakfast and we start out on a shopping tour. We see all the beautiful shops on West Seventh Street in Los Angeles - wonderful bank buildings, skyscrapers, beautiful parks, hundreds of orange juice stands where they squeeze oranges right before your eyes and you get all you can drink for a dime. The streets are filled with vast crowds every hour. The stores are truly beautiful. Barker Brothers furniture store and Bullock's department store are of special interest, employing many hundreds of people. At least a dozen beautiful churches right in the heart of the city, and many more on the outskirts. And I believe Los Angeles has the finest collection of magnificent educational buildings of any city in the union. Of course you have heard about the climate and you all know it's a wild story, but you can believe an old timer - and I'll tell you, it's great. Warm sunshine mixed with ocean breezes make a wonderful mixture. I can't describe. I imagine it's like being in the Garden of Eden - it's the best climate I've had since I left Grenada - so you see I am still loyal.

Tuesday, June 4th. Today is City Election in Los Angeles. Everybody out early to vote. Our household favors Mr. Porter and we believe he will win easily. We drive to Pasadena, the home of many notables - one in particular being Mr. Wm. Wrigley who owns the entire Island of Catalina, where we expect to visit soon. Mr. Wrigley has a beautiful Pasadena home.

We also visited Brookside Park, surrounded by unusual scenery and found the golf links and club grounds beautiful. Visited all noteworthy places, returned to Hollywood and after dinner enjoyed a few hours at the El Capitan Theatre, a beautiful playhouse on Hollywood Boulevard.

Wednesday, June 5th. Well the morning paper says Mr. Porter is elected mayor of Los Angeles so everyone in this neighborhood seems rejoicing. We are going today over to Culver City, Burbank and Universal City, visiting in the heart of the famous moving picture industry. Found the picture studios located on large, beautiful grounds and very busy places.

Thursday, June 6th. We wanted to start back home today, but we gave in and promised to stay until next Tuesday. Daughter wants us to stay all summer but we think of home and you know we are too young to stay away so long. We are going to Long Beach after breakfast.

Well we found it a wonderful town. Besides the beautiful ocean and village attractions, there are fields and fields of oil wells, beautiful Bixley Park and miles and miles of ocean highway drives - no word printed picture would convey the real beauties of California scenery. We had a delightful day. Dined at the Virginia Hotel and returned home via Redondo Beach - enjoyed a radio show and retired for the night. We sleep under blankets in June. It may be a blanket story, but it's true.

Friday, June 7th. We left at 6 a. m. for a day's outing on Catalina Island. After a breakfast in the city, we boarded the Catalina special - arrived at the harbor after a delightful ride over the southeastern portion of Los Angeles and at 10 a. m. went aboard a lovely ship where at least five hundred people were gathered and many other big ships were also loaded with people. Some were eating, some reading and with a lovely band playing many of the young folks were dancing, others out on the upper deck, wrapped in big coats and blankets and with the usual song of "get your lemon drops now - the best thing for a sea voyage" and boys selling souvenirs of all kinds. A big bunch of Shriners were aboard and having a wonderful time. Side trip tickets are sold for the glass bottom boat, scenic sky line drive and motor boat trip to Seal Rock. We bought tickets for all three trips.

Upon reaching the Island we are hurried away up the hill and around the bend to the St. Catherine Hotel - the largest hotel in the world on one floor. This is a beautiful hotel. We enjoyed a fine lunch in its spacious dining hall, and then started for the glass bottom boat trip. From this boat we gaze upon the bottom of the great Pacific Ocean, and see all the beauties of the submarine gardens - varied colored fish, of all sizes, shape and form - soon a native diver dives off our boat 56 feet below and appears like a huge fish underneath the water. He comes up with several abalone shells and we buy them as souvenirs. The glass bottom boat is a trip we will never forget. We get back to shore, get into a motor boat, called "The Betty" and take a 40 minute trip out to Seal Rock where we saw seals weighing from 50 pounds to 1500 pounds and just lots of them, a most interesting sight, and a delightful ride it was, circling Catalina Island and the City of Avalon. We pull in to shore and are loaded into a funny little trolley car without any top, holding about 25 people and start on the sky line scenic trip. Up the hill around the bend and higher and higher we speed along thinking the contraption will upset us sure at the next turn, but there we pause to view Mr. Wm. Wrigley's (The Spurrant chewing gum man) palatial home of thirty rooms - truly a beautiful hilltop home and now we start down the incline and soon find ourselves at the water's edge where we board the steamer for Los Angeles, reaching there about 7:30 p. m. and taxi up to the Biltmore Hotel for dinner. After dinner get our car from the Biltmore Garage and drive home and retire for the evening with most pleasant memories and we all agree that it's the end of a perfect day.

Saturday, June 8th. We spent much of the morning in the flower garden, admire the gold fish, watch the big turtle bask in the sun on the patio and marvel at his eating, when we are told he is most a hundred years old. In the afternoon we drove to Culver City, Inglewood and other small villages. Enjoyed a cafeteria dinner and saw a vaudeville bill at Pantages, a beautiful theatre. We noticed most of the larger places of business close in Los Angeles at 1 p. m. on Saturdays, but the streets are just as crowded. We arrive home about 10 p. m. After a good night's rest we are awakened by the church bells and as we are used to that at home, we did not feel so far away.

Sunday, June 9th. We tune in and get Rev. Bob Schuler; also listened to some lovely talks from the Bible Institute. We can pick up programs of all kinds all day and night here, plenty of speeches, news, music, laughter and song all the day long. We dine at home for a change, take a drive up the canyon and return. Listen to another sermon over the radio, a talk from Mr. Burr McIntosh, and some sacred music and retire.

I wish to say that every day has been bright and beautiful. It is truly a city of sunshine. It combines wealth of resources with a variety of vacation enjoyments. Summer days here are exhilarating - the nights are cool, with wonderful parks, mountain and ocean scenery. It is truly a wonderful city of over one million inhabitants. It is an ideal vacation city. Thousands of vacation seekers bring their families to Los Angeles, the greatest mountain and ocean playground of the nation, with its hundreds of miles of splendid highways.

Monday, June 10th. With much regret we tell daughter we must be on our way back. She and her husband are so anxious for us to stay longer, but we are not used to a holiday every day and our vacation, though short, has been wonderful, and I haven't been allowed to spend a dollar of Mississippi money and we have surely had the best of everything.

Daughter has just reserved us drawing room A in car 2 on the great Southern Pacific and we will start from here Tuesday at 3 p. m. on a car we will remain in, without any change at all, right into Memphis, and it all seems like a dream. Hersee and George have some surprises they say for us today. I don't know what they are, will tell you tonight.

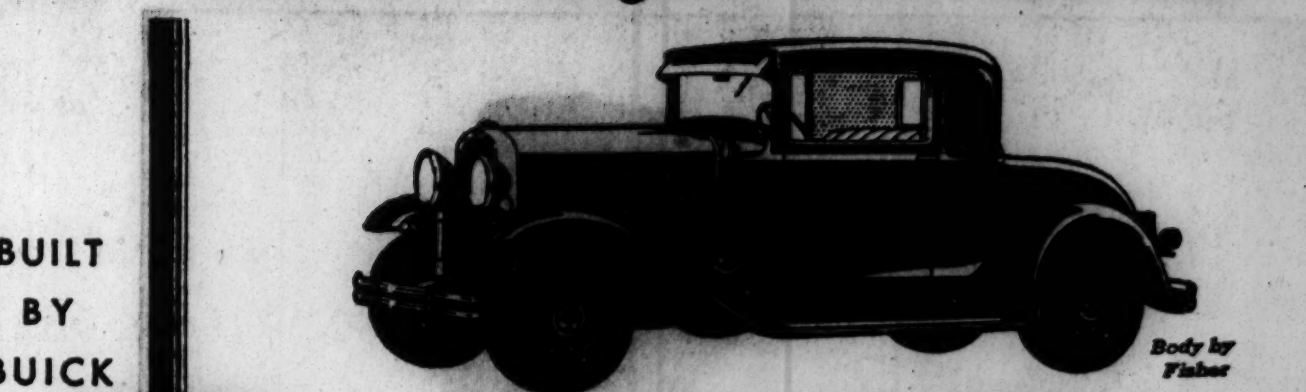

Well the day was wonderful. One of our surprises was a few hours spent in the magnificent Chinese Theatre in Hollywood which is just across the street from the beautiful Roosevelt Hotel. This unique theatre had for its bill "Broadway Melody" with sixty girls in one chorus besides the members of other features. Now we are driven out Ventura Boulevard to an early California eating house, known as the "La Fonda". A dinner consisting of delicious fried chicken, potatoes, hot biscuits and honey is served and eaten with the fingers - no knives or forks are provided. Everything is in keeping with the period, prior to such tools. We return home for the evening.

Now I want all the good people of Grenada County to know we are starting for home tomorrow and will arrive there before this letter gets into print. And next to Grenada I want to say Los Angeles is the most wonderful city in the union and that you can't appreciate California until you see and learn all about Los Angeles and its many suburban villages.

I found Hollywood a delightful, quiet and clean suburb of Los Angeles. In fact anything that any other state has can be found some where in California and here's hoping you may all visit California some time.

Yours sincerely,
Wm. F. FERGUSON.

Speaking Faces

When Thomas Jefferson was president, he went horseback riding one day with a party of friends. They came to a river which they wished to cross. And as there was no bridge or ferry, they were compelled to swim the horses over.

An aged Indian, seated on the bank, watched the proceedings with an impassive countenance. Horse after horse plunged into the stream, and he uttered no word. But as Jefferson, the last in line, started into the water, the Indian rose, and asked that he be permitted to mount behind, and cross the river.

Jefferson gave him the lift, and when they had crossed, asked him, "Why did you not speak to some of the others, who went first, to take you across?"

"I look at all their faces," replied the Indian. "Each face say no. I look at your face. Your face say yes. So I ask you."

Odd! But haven't you seen faces that were eloquent? Faces whose expression, and lines, spoke as plainly as any words could have done?

This is true of type faces, too. An artistic printer can so arrange them that they will carry a living, personal message to each client and prospect you wish to reach.

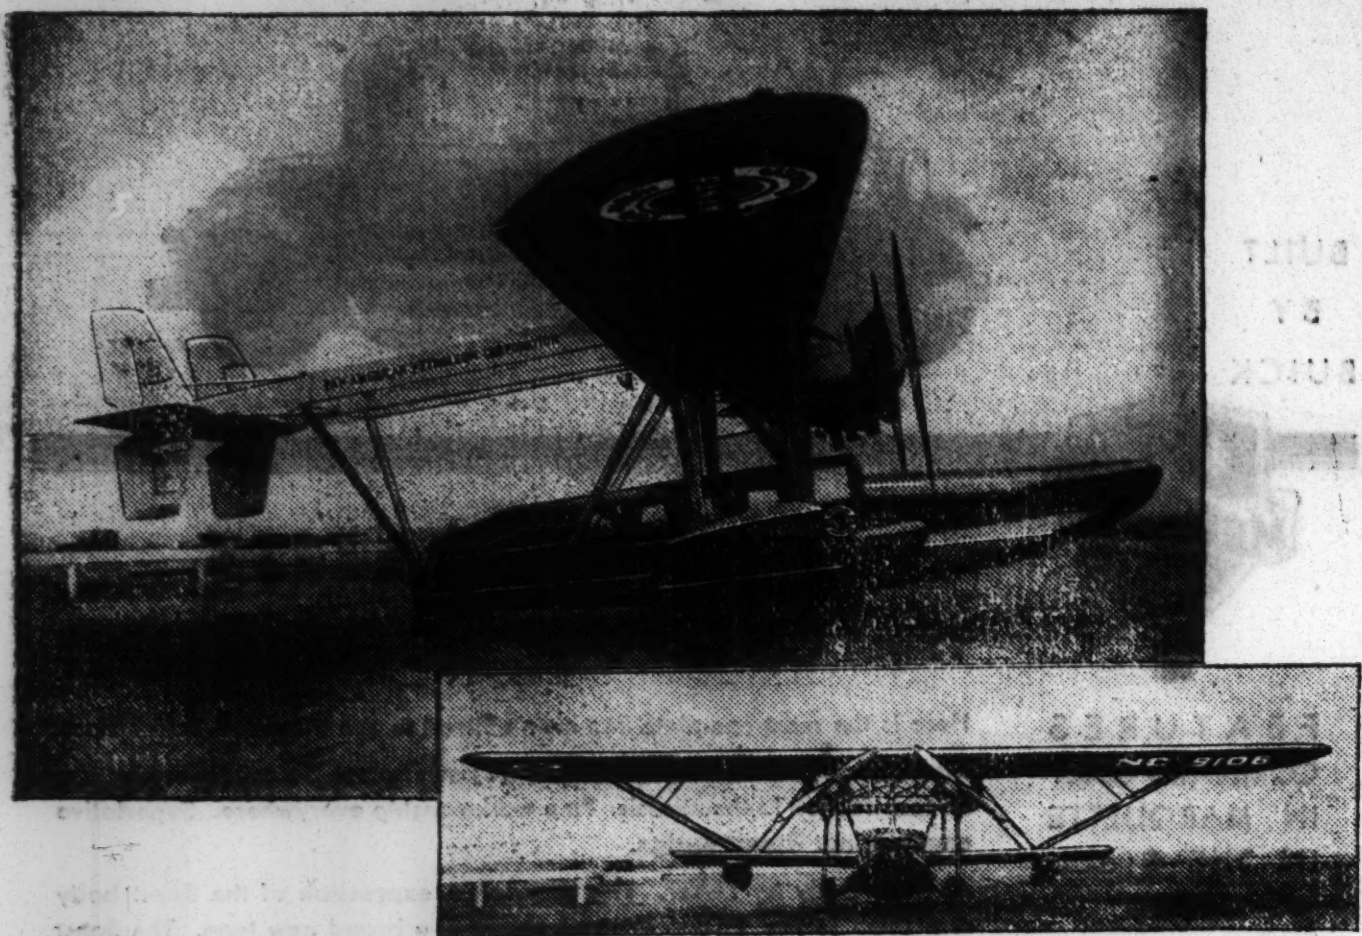

Type faces that speak! Speak of a worthy product that fills some one's need! Can you think of a more effective method of building your business?

Our type is clear and readable, and our printers real artists. We'll be glad to show you samples, and different grades of paper.

Huge Pan-Am Airplane Makes its Headquarters in the South

THE "Pan-Am," a twin-motored Sikorsky amphibian airplane was recently brought south by the Pan American Petroleum Corporation. It flew from New York to New Orleans and is headquartered there to be used by company officials on trips throughout the southern states.

The Sikorsky is a plane of the most advanced design and construction and is a type which can land with equal facility on land or water. It is in reality a flying yacht and is equipped with every device for safety and comfort in flying. The cabin has a seating capacity for eight passengers, two pilots and a mechanic. The wing spread is 71 feet. The two 410 horsepower Pratt & Whitney Wasp motors carry it through the air at a top speed of 130 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour. With the fuel tank filled to its capacity of 340 gallons of

The "Pan-Am" is equally at home on land, water or in flight. When it lands on water the wheels are raised by hydraulic pressure to a position parallel with the lower wings gasoline the Sikorsky has a flying radius of eight hours.

C. D. Kirby, the pilot, has had fourteen years in aviation, ten having been spent in the United States Navy as instructor, test pilot and special aircraft operator. For some time he was stationed aboard the aircraft carrier Langley. His experience includes approximately 3,000 hours in the air, four years overseas during the World War, and activity in launching catapult shots from airplanes, both by air and by powder. He has flown in many foreign countries and practically all over the United States.

The second pilot is W. B. Murphy, former navy pilot and instructor in commercial aviation, who also has had many hundreds of hours of flying in foreign countries. J. J. Maloney, for nine years in the navy with experimental squadrons and aircraft scouting fleets, is mechanic.

The Sikorsky is the type of plane used by Colonel Lindbergh on his recent flight to the Panama Canal Zone opening up the air mail line.

The Pan American Petroleum Corporation brought this Sikorsky south in the interest of aviation and to promote the development of proper landing fields. During the past year they have been making a survey of the entire south to determine the conditions of various fields in view of purchasing this plane. They expect to visit every section of the south where there are fields suitable for the plane to land.

SAYS SIX PUBLICATIONS REQUIRED FOR PARDONS

Hon. Edgar S. Wilson, An Authority on the Constitution Says

From the "Mirrors of Mississippi" by Hon. Edgar S. Wilson, The Sentinel takes a paragraph which shows, according to his interpretation, that six consecutive publications are required for pardon petitions. Mr. Wilson is an authority on matters of state and is perhaps one of the best writers in Mississippi on the constitution of the state. He cites a plain mathematical calculation to prove his assertion. If Mr. Wilson is correct, the pardon askers had best take notice and govern themselves accordingly. It might also be well for pardon givers to see that all publications are made as the law requires, and particularly is it important for the one seeking a pardon to see that his petition is published as the constitution demands, lest, after he be out, a subsequent Governor revoke the pardon because it was improperly issued. Here is Mr. Wilson's statement.

Under the constitution of 1890 no pardon may be granted by the governor unless and until a petition is published for thirty days in a newspaper in the county where the crime was committed setting forth the reasons for pardon, said petition to be filed with the governor after publication. The idea that only four weeks publication is required is incorrect and inadequate. Nor will five publications suffice. For instance, say a publication for pardon appeared in a weekly paper on July 1, 8, 15, 22, and 29. That would be only twenty-nine days inclusive of the first and last publications. Hence six publications are required in order to comply with the constitutional mandate of thirty days. Under the old constitution publication for pardon was not required, and governors have been known to pardon even before indictments and convictions were had. Under the new constitution no pardon may be granted before conviction nor after conviction until petition is published as above indicated."

PAUCITY OF PUBLICITY IN COMMERCIAL APPEAL DISSATISFIES LEADERS

Whereas the Leadership Training School of the North Mississippi M. E. Church, South, in session at Grenada, Mississippi, is regarded as one of the very important organizations of the church, there having been enrolled for the present session practically 200 members, including in the list seventy of the ministers of this Conference; and

Whereas repeated efforts have been made to get what we regard as a reasonable amount of publicity in the Columns of the Commercial Appeal, without success. The program of the school was sent to the Commercial Appeal some days in advance of the meeting, but it was not published. The local correspondent tells us that he has sent the Commercial Appeal several notices about the school; on Wednesday afternoon of this week, he sent an item but it appeared in Thursday morning's paper abbreviated to one-third its original length; and

Whereas in the days of that great Editor, C. P. J. Mooney, every religious organization was given due attention in the Commercial Appeal. He recognized how important these organizations are and he further realized that the good will of a people among whom a newspaper circulates is very important to its permanency and prosperity; and

Whereas the failure to give what we regard as due mention of this Training School applies to many other things and communities in this part of the State; complaints are frequent, and the statement is not infrequently heard that the Commercial Appeal is more generous with its space to events and gatherings in the territory where it comes in competition with Jackson, New Orleans and other daily papers; and

Whereas, we fully understand that the management of the Commercial Appeal, or of any other newspaper, has the legal right to say what shall and what shall not appear in the columns of their paper, yet a newspaper is a public institution and there are certain things that it owes the public and those who contribute to its support.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Sunday School Training School in session at Grenada desires to go on record as protesting against being ignored by the Commercial Appeal and we desire further to say that the complaint we are making is common all over North Mississippi.

Resolved further that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the local correspondent of the Commercial Appeal with the request that he forward same to the Commercial Appeal management in Memphis.

Dangerous Cargo

Rice has to be elaborately stowed on shipboard, pierced by trunks, raised from the hold bottom on dunnage wood, and under all circumstances kept watertight, even though the ship is awash with heavy seas on every deck. What is going to happen to 5,000 tons of rice in a closed compartment once it gets wet is fairly obvious.

Banking Facility

A clearing house is a voluntary association of banks located in the same city joined together to facilitate the daily exchange of checks, drafts and notes among its members, instead of separate exchanges being made directly by each bank with all other banks.

Column About Colored People of Grenada County Items by J. H. Phillips

The Belle Flower church and pastor, Rev. Gus Nabors, of Grenada, take this method to thank the friends of the various churches of Grenada, namely: New Hope Baptist church, A. M. E. and the M. E. church for their splendid help in aiding the Belle Flower Baptist church with the feast that was given at the Masonic hall on June 20. Too much credit cannot be given Bro. Tom Whitten as manager and Bro. George Williams and Pink Sykes and A. Ringo for the success.

Miss Lee Bralia Fisher, daughter of K. D. Fisher, of this city, died last Wednesday, June 19th. Her illness covered a period of several weeks. She had been engaged in teaching and was regarded as very proficient. At the time of being stricken she was teaching at Tupelo where she was held in very high esteem. Miss Fisher was born and reared here in this city and was regarded a social leader among the young folk. Coming out of a Christian home she exhibited those Christian virtues which made her shine. God wants some of the best is evinced in the taking to himself some of the shining lights in their early life, and leaves us to mourn their departure.

The program to have a local organization in every community of the county for maintenance of the Old Folks Home, met with a hearty response at Pleasant Hill Missionary Baptist church last Sunday. Mr. Henderson, the president of the Old Folks Home Association, had an engagement to meet this community on their 4th Sunday service. They were there in large numbers, the best congregation he has met in quite a while. After presenting the cause to them, the nucleus of an organization was formed and as a guarantee of their interest, the sum of $5.50 was contributed. Rev. Titus, the pastor of this wide awake

Cargo Sailors Dislike

Many common cargoes have some curious and unpleasant characteristics. Sugar, for instance, gives off a powerful and often poisonous gas. It has also a sickening odor, and you cannot get the sweet taste out of your mouth. The men simply crave vinegar or lemon juice—anything sour. "Deliver us from sugar" is the sailor's earnest prayer.

Glorious Opportunities

We lay so much stress on the glorious political opportunities open to American youth. We ought to lay stress also on the facility with which the highest and greatest are reabsorbed into the ranks of private citizenship when their days of service and elevation are over. —Providence Journal.

church, stands high in the estimation of his flock and with them promises to give his support to this charitable institution. This neighborhood can boast of a strong backing when we remember that J. S. Hankins, C. B. Willis, Allen Millhouse and many other men of outstanding prominence of our group live here.

Johnson Neely, one of Grenada's old citizens, died here last week after a lingering illness of several months duration. He was one among our best citizens and leaves a large family, (grown) and many friends to mourn their loss. Funeral services were held at the New Hope Baptist church of which he was a consistent member.

On Friday morning of last week news reached Grenada that Mrs. Susie (Davis) Bratcher had been shot by a burglar and a few hours later, that she had died from it. The minds of the folk who were so intimately acquainted with her could hardly realize that it was an uncontradicted fact. Mrs. Bratcher was born and reared in Grenada and stamped her impress upon the activities of our civic and industrial life.

Her first husband, William Davis, died here several years ago. To them were born four children, two boys and two girls. After his death she moved to Memphis Tenn. where she married James Bratcher. To this second marriage one girl was born. Her husband, James Bratcher, has been detained at police headquarters for questioning.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I suffered a good while before I found something that would help me," writes Mr. E. W. Berry, of Neshoba, Mo. "My trouble was indigestion, pains in my chest and a tight, bloated feeling that would make me feel smothered."

"Speaking of this to a friend of mine, he told me that Black-Draught was good for this trouble. I bought a package. It certainly did help me, so I continued to use it. 'It is in the truest sense, a blessing, and sometimes when I would be hungry and ready to eat, I would have a call and would have to eat later. Then I would eat too much or too hurriedly. This would cause indigestion. After I started using Black-Draught, I found it did me a world of good.'"
